Mosaic Press making news in the New York Times!

The Obit Man
ISBN 0-88962-829-7
PB $20 Can/$15 US

October 7, 2004, FRANKFURT – New York Times carried a story on the Frankfurt Book Fair.

The article starts with references to "...the Wylie Agency, the literary agents who represent Philip Roth..."

The next paragraph starts "At the Simon & Schuster booth..."

And then...the story continues in the same paragraph as Simon & Schuster,

"And at the booth of Mosaic Press, a small Ontario publisher, a facsimile of the cover of The Obit Man," a forthcoming book by Fred Langan, similarly showed the Nazi Party's swastika."

We are asked – how did you do it? The answer is simple.

Publish terrific books with terrific covers by terrific authors on terrific topics and the New York Times will come to you!!!

Edward Wyatt, the Times reporter who was covering the Frankfurt Book Fair just "stopped in his tracks" at the Mosaic booth, 8.0 L962! It happened like that!

Fred Langan's second novel set in London and behind Nazi lines in France during the Second War is now available and we expect more big news from it.

With advance publicity in the Times, it is sure to be a winner!!! As of this moment. Fred Langan is in London hustling the book with The Telegraph for whom he writes obituaries and with the Economist.

Kilpatrick's Star Rising in Europe

First came the English language editions. Then the French. Now, Mosaic is pleased to announce that Nancy Kilpatrick's work has gone into Spanish! And, rights have been sold for Italian! AND...in 2005, Nancy will be in Russian!

A sign of the times... Nancy Kilpatrick's work are hot items in the international world of fantasy fiction. We knew it would happen a long time ago! That's why we published her work and continue to do so!

Mosaic Press finds a home in India

In the Spring of 2005, Mosaic Press will be publishing a magical author from India, K.C.Das. He writes in one of the countless regional languages of India, Oriya.

So, Mosaic had to get this great author translated from Oriya into English. Along came Phyllis Granoff the great Sanskrit scholar and she did it!

Now, there are three major publishers from India who are competing to buy English language rights for publication in India! Our only problem is who to pick!

Watch for this literary gem of the Indian sub-continent!

And, now, at last – the definitive international breakthrough for Leon Whiteson...

At the recent Frankfurt Book Fair, Mosaic Press sold Italian language rights of Leon Whiteson's erotic novel In the Garden of Desire (0-88962-720-7) to Newton & Compton. It is the first of what is projected to be a series of Leon Whiteson novels to go 'Italian'. In the Garden of Desire was previously sold to the Doubleday/Bertelsmann Venus Book Club.

And this December, the new 'edgy' novel Leon Whiteson about incest, Dreams of a Weeping Woman will be released.

CATULLUS IS HERE!

Another publishing first from Mosaic Press

Catullus, the great poet is now available – at last - in a bilingual Latin/English edition, with a superb new, contemporary translation by Ewan Whyte.

Why a Latin/English edition? Because Latin is making a serious "comeback". Radio Finland International's most popular program is in Latin! The world is getting turned on to Latin.

What better way to get into Latin than by reading Rome's greatest erotic and satiric poet!

BRAVO! – A Tradition Continues

Documenting and Supporting the Performing Arts in Canada – always a priority at Mosaic Press!

Alexander Brott has been at the center of classical music in Canada since the 1930's. Violinist, performer, conductor, composer... his devotion and inspiration to the musical cultural of Canada is widely recognized and acknowledged. From the CBC to the Montreal Symphony to the McGill Chamber Orchestra, Alexander Brott has left his indelible mark on all aspects of Canada's musical development. The Order of Canada and numerous other awards have now come his way.

To celebrate his 90th birthday in March, Mosaic Press proudly announces that it will publish his autobiography.

JOHN WING JR — POPULAR STANDUP FINDS HIS POETIC VOICE

CBC mainstay John Wing Jr. has done it all when it comes to the world of comedy. From clubs and cruise ships to the Tonight Show, countless other American and Canadian programs, every comedy festival you could imagine.

He is also gaining a reputation as an exceptional poet who – we believe – will one day receive the Governor's General Award for poetry... if there is comic or poetic justice in this land!

The Danforth Review got it right about this poet. In their review of ..and the fear makes us special published by Mosaic Press in 2000, they state: "He taunts and teases and plays with every line delivered... He writes with authority and conviction. His work is controlled and outrageous. The beauty and the stringent reaching for notes out of range and rolling words into ideals."

Canadian Writer has Worldwide Appeal

Cyril Dabydeen's stories of immigration and the post-colonial experience are lauded and studied around the globe, and with his new collection of short-stories he's set to 'break out' at home.

Cyril Dabydeen, activist, author and university professor, is enjoying a surge of popularity these days. With the publication of his new collection of short stories, Play a Song Somebody you will hear a lot more about this exceptional author!

Dabydeen's work is studied internationally, he has lectured and read his fiction and poetry in numerous countries. The Indian Journal of Canadian Studies summed up Dabydeen's appeal:

"...the stories are an enjoyable read not only for those who want to come face-to-face with the anguish of being an immigrant...but also for those who enjoy sensitive explorations of the human psyche and the pulsations of the human heart."

World Literature Today has praised him: "His stories are seamless between past and present, fantasy and reality...a significant post-colonial writer."
